

Giving Up The Internet:

What Would You Do Without Your Best Tool?

Below are some things people typically use the Internet for. For each category, write down a few website(s) you typically use for that purpose (if you do use the Internet for that). Then write down the offline alternative(s) you might use instead of that website. For both online and offline options, write a couple of pros and cons (e.g., how long it takes, how good the results are).
